PITTSBURGH – United States Steel Corporation (U. S. The Classic showcases the country's best high school seniors at a one-day event to raise funds for under-served communities. The event begins at 3:00 p.m. when the Women's PA All-Stars challenge All-Stars from Ohio. 2024 marks the first year two all-women's teams will compete against one another.

The WPIAL All-Stars will take on the New Jersey All-Stars at 4:00 PM. The Pennsylvania vs. USA All-Stars matches begin at 6:00 p.m. The entire event will be livestreamed on FloWrestling.org.

"We are thrilled to work with U. S. Steel to bring this great event to the wrestling community," said Kraig Nellis, Pittsburgh Wrestling Classic Co-Director. "U. S. Steel is an icon in the City of Pittsburgh and will remain part of the fabric of our city well into the 21st century."

"As a past participant, I know The Pittsburgh Wrestling Classic has a rich history of using amateur wrestling to provide entertainment value and charitable giving. It gives youth in the places where we live and work an opportunity to learn wrestling and build character, while laying the foundation for stronger communities," said Scott Buckiso, U. S. Steel Senior Vice President and Chief Manufacturing Officer.

Established in 1975, The Pittsburgh Wrestling Classic is the most prestigious high school all-star dual meet event in the country. It has been dubbed the Rose Bowl of Wrestling as the end of season marquee event for wrestling's most elite.
